They tell an interesting story of the receipt of the news of the holdup at Old Faithful inn, and of the excitement and consternation following the announcement that a real holdup had occurred in the park and that the occupants of half a dozen stages containing pleasure seekers were compelled to give up at the point of a gun their money and valuables.

They were resting at the inn after their trip to Seattle, where they had attended the national convention of Eagles recently held in that city. About 9:15 yesterday morning," said Mr. McIntosh, "we were all sitting around in front of the Old Faithful inn, when we were astenished to see dashing up the road a man on horseback, without coat or hat. He was evidently greatly perturbed, and when he finally reached the door of the hotel and jumped from his horse, he stood, agitated and trembling, vainly trying to summon his powers of speech. This he was unable to do for fully two minutes, and then he managed to blurt out the words, "Hold app-Lone Star cross roads—everybody help."

"All was excitement and confusion at once. The man went into the hotel office, and in a few minutes was able to tell a connected story of the holdup, how one lone robber had held up six coaches all by himself, and had stolen everything of value that the passengers in those six coaches had on

"The instant the news was announced," continued Mr. McIntosh, "eight or ten of the boys accompanying me volunteered to go with the party to chase the robber. It was just in my line, and of course, I was anxious to go. We tried high and low to get horses and guns to pursue the bandit, but the rule of the park that no one may carry guns inside the lines made it impossible to get shooting pieces, and carry guns inside the lines made it impossible to get shooting pieces, and horses were just as scarce; in fact, they could not be had. This we regretted very much, as we had the news and could have gotten out 45 minutes ahead of the time the soldiers were placed on the march. "The sergeant who brought the news headed the party of soldiers who took up the chase, and they trailed the robber three miles to a swamp where they lost the trail and were compelled to turn back. WHAT TRAMP TOURIST SAW.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—A dispatch to Tribune from Butte, Mont., says: The Quadrangle club of Chicago, will be the richer because of the disaster which overtook the Yellowstone tourists yesterday when they were held up and robbed by a lone highway man. Its gain will come through the addition of more curlosities to the Yellowstone park collection now gathered together by Mr. Mode Wineman, a member of the club, artist and lover of the wild wood.

Mr. Wineman who already has won fame by the Yellowstone park pictures he has secured was continuing his 11 day walk through the park, when in the canyon he stumbled upon the hold-up scene. His first notification was when he saw the messenger rushing back for help. He hurried forward in time to gain some impressions of the aftermath of a highway robbery, if not to be in on the real action.

Mr. Wineman's tale of his experience was as follows:

"I had been searching for beautiful views of the park, on an 11 days' walking trip when in the heart of the wilderness two men galloped wildly past for more than a year past a resident of Salt Lake county, filed suit in the district court today, asking that the bonds of matrimony existing betwen himself and Dollie Angel be dissolved. The complaint sets forth that the couple became husband and wife at Greenville, in the Lone Star State, June 9, 1901, and three years later, in Ferubary, defendant deserted plaintiff and has since that time continued to live separate and apart from him. In fact, Mrs. Angel avows that she will have nothing further to do with Mr. Angel, and will never live with him again. Offers on the part of Mr. Angel, looking to reconciliation have been spurned, the wife even refusing to accept money or any favors from him.

ARTHUR ADAMS WAS WELL KNOWN HERE

Young Suicide in Washington Was Stepson of Former Governor Thomas.

WIFE'S DEATH IS THE CAUSE

Growing Despondent, He Loses Hope, Goes to His Room and Turns On the Gas.

(Special to the "News") Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 .- After writing three notes, in which he diected as to the disposition of his body and effects, Arthur D. Adams, 35 years old, a bookbinder, turned on two gas jets in his room on the third floor at a coming house in this city yesterday

To one of his notes Adams added: 'Here goes nothing-a life spent in misery. Whatever faults I had, I am ny worst enemy

While the fumes were getting in their deadly work he wrote another note telling of his sensations and then, droping his pencil, flung himself on his bed to die.

His body was found at 7 o'clock last night, when Albert Basdekian detected the odor of gas and broke open the door. On a table close beside the bed four notes were found. Three were written in a legible hand, but the fourth one, written last, was so scrawled that it could hardly be deciphered It read as follows:

"I am sinking lower and lower from the effects of asphyxiation, which has killed so many people. My head is bursting. I am going now, good bye."

ADAMS DESPONDENT

Despondency over the death of his wife, Mrs. Delia Adams in Salt Lake City, Aug. 3, is supposed to have been the cause of his deed. Several letters from relatives in Utah were found in his room telling of the death of Mrs. Adams and of the funeral and burial. A few minutes before 7 o'clock in the evening, Mrs. Edmond, proprieto of the rooming house, detected the odor of gas. At her request Basdekian, one of the roomers, started an investigation. He found gas escaping from the room occupied by Adams, and when repeated knocking failed to bring a response, he kicked open the door.

Basdekion waited an instant until a part of the gas had escaped and then Basdekion waited an instant until a part of the gas had escaped and then he rushed into the room and threw open the windows. Finding Adams' body was lwarm and believing life might not be extinct, he telephoned for the police ambulance. The patrol wagon from the first precinct and an ambulance from the emergency hospital were both hurried to the house. Police of the First precinct notified Dr. Glasebrook, deputy coroner, who gave a certificate of death by suicide and directed that the body be turned over to a local undertaker and prepared for burlal.

THREE NOTES WRITTEN.

Three notes written by Adams pre-paratory to turning on gas were taken to the station.

The second note, addressed in the same manner, read:

Tabernacle choir singers: Beloved cellow workers. It is time to take up thew our labor of rehearsing again, and hereby request your presence at the abernacle next Thursday night at 9:45 I hereby request your presence at the tabernacle next Thursday night at 9:45 sharp. Also, I hereby extend a special invitation to the old time workers who made the choir to come forth victorious in past Eisteddfods, members of the world's fair chorus, the "Amateurs," the Salt Lake chorus, the "Amateurs," the Salt Lake chorus, the Harmony club, Mme. Swensen's ladies' choruses, and the male choirs who have competed and won, all choir members at the time, I invite you to come and take your places in the choir at our next rehearsal, and take part with us in the coming Eisteddfod and conference, even if you do not at present see your way to remain with us during the entire season. None of you have ever been dismissed from the choir, and with the rehearsals had between now and Oct, I, you will be able to do your part credit as of yore, uniting with the present tregulars and younger singers. The magnificent reputation you helped to earn for the tabernacle choir must upon this occasion of the third great Eisteddfod held in Utah, not only be maintained, but enhanced. We have kept aloof from the competition that we might not be divided into factions, but aloof from the competition that we might not be divided into factions, but might not be divided into factions, but appear in one united whole in special choruses representing the best of our regular work, with you side by side with the present regular members we can do ourselves full justice—indeed, equal all the competitive choirs combined, be they never so good. This is what I would have the choir do, and if your old love for the work and for the choir is still burning you will come full of enthusiastic fervor and desire to accomplish this in your hearts. No matter if it entails considerable inconvenience on your part to do so, (no good, or great thing is to do so, (no good, or great thing is accomplished without some sacrifice.)
Come at once and get proper rehearsal in a half a dozen of our greatest and best choruses.

In the meantime one evening next week we will have a grand reunion at Wandmere with somes upon the lake.

week we will have a grand reunion at Wandmere, with songs upon the lake, and bridge, etc., in the new moonlight. The children members of the singing class will also meet me at the Assembly hall next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, to rehearse and prepare to spend an afternoon at Wandamere on choir day. Please spread the word and tell every singer you meet. There is no time to waste-only five short is no time to waste—only five short weeks of preparation, every singer in his seat at every session will accom-plish what we want; do not wait for further invitation Of course regular member is expected to be present at the first rehearsal of the season. Salt Lakers Find One Good Use for Beer-Use the Amber to Cool Engines.

An automobile trip through the Yellowstone and the country leading to it, filled with many incidents, pleasant filled with many incidents, pleasant and unpleasant, was completed yesterday when the following Sait Lake men returned to this city after a 24 day's vacation: J. H. Garrett, Parley P. Jenson, Fred Strouse, Willard Scrowcroft of Ogden, Willard Weihe, Julian Bamberger, Max Bamberger, Alvin Beesley, Matt Thomas, George Hendrick and Jack McCooey, chauffeur. The party left this city, the first four named, in an automobile on Aug. feur. The party left this city, the first four named, in an automobile on Aug. 1, the other members of the party leaving one day later by train and joining the autoists at St. Anthony. The entire trip was filled with incidents somewhat thrilling. On the first day out the distance was misjudged between supplies of water for the cooler of the auto and a quantity of beer was poured into the machine to serve in the place of water. Expensive in the place of water, Expensive though the cooling liquid was, it did its work to perfection and landed the vacationists safely in Ross Fork, Ida. On the way to Blackfoot the road was so poor that Indians were hired to "snake" the big machine over the road to its destination. On arriving at Arthur L. Thomas. Mrs. Thomas was a sister of Mrs. Adams and the two families were most intimate. Several years after the death of Mrs. Thomas, Governor Thomas married Mrs. Adams, whose husband died about two yeas prior to her marriage with Governor Thomas. It was very soon after her second marriage that Mrs. Thomas, recond marriage that Mrs. Thomas herself died, survived by five children, Miss Annie Adams, Arthur Adams, William Adams, Charles Adams and Max Adams, all of whom live in this city. It is to Annie Adams that Arthur leaves all his belongings.

CARD OF THANKS. Mrs. Laron Pratt and daughters desire to thank all of those who symmathized with them by word or deed during their recent bereavement through the death of Laron Pratt. Especially do they thank the singers, speakers and friends for the music, sontiments expressed and floral tributes at the funeral at the Seventeenth ward chapet Sunday afternoon.

Beesley drew good patronage from the hotels and camps near the party is beadquarters. Willard Welhe and Alvin Beesley drew oyations from the large parties of tourists at the park hotels and courinced them of Utah's standing in the musical world. Just to vary weather conditions, rain growing somewhat monotonous, Aug. 15, saw the party in the midst of a blinding snow-storm. (Snowstorms in story books and on the stage are always blinding, so why not this one.)

Incidents where the automobile was snaked over the back over dugways, where the sparker wouldn't spark and the burstless.

Incidents where the automobile was snaked over the bad roads, where it skidded over dugways, where the sparker wouldn't spark and the carburetter wouldn't carbur, or where, perchance, the chauffeur couldn't chofe the machine up hills that seemed to be standing on end more for the purpose of perplexing autoists than to furnish themes for poetry on the grandeur of nature's abandon in the upheaval of the bowels of the earth in one gigantic scheme of majestic disorder.

But the party saw some good road. The highway through the Malad valley, Brigham City to Malad, is pronounced one of the best in Utah and far surpassing anything Idaho can produce. It is a model, the party says, which the good roads boosters should bring to the attention of road supervisors of other countles. The party covered 700 miles by auto and 409 by wasson.

VICIOUS FIGHT ENDS IN HOSPITAL

Former Sheriff of Allegheny Co., Penn., Claims He Was Robbed In the Wilson Bar.

Louis Scofield, Saloon Porter, Accused Of Picking Pockets, Mixes in Combat Down Stairway.

There was a vicious fight at 7 o'clock this morning at the corner of Main and Third South streets, in which "Jim" Richards, aged about 50 years, of Pittsburg, Penn., formerly sheriff of Allegheny county, that state, received a bad scalp wound and numerous cuts and bruises, and his clothing was torn to shreds. The fight followed the alleged robbing of Mr.

Richards at the Wilson hotel bar.
Mr. Richards is now at the Cullen hotel, where he is being attended by Dr. R. M. Stewart. Locked in the city jall is Louis Scofield, a "swamper" at the Wilson, and held in custody pending further investigation is Dan Raleigh, known as "Dusty Dan," a well known sporting character about town and brother of George Raleigh, former detective. Richards accuses Scofield of "touching" him for about former detective. Richards accuses. Scotleld of "touching" him for about $200, and charges that Raleigh attempted to take a valuable diamond ring from his finger while Richards was asleep and in an intoxicated condition in the Wilson barroom.

RICHARDS' STORY. According to the story told the po-ice by Richards, he was drinking con-iderably last night. He came here three days ago and was going to leave this morning for the southern part of the state to look after some mining inthe state to look after some mining interests. He arose early this morning and paid his bill at the Wilson. He then went into the barroom, got a drink, sat down in a chair and fell to sleep. He says he was awakened by some one tugging at his diamond ring trying to remove it from his finger. He jumped up and struck the man. He claims that the man who tried to steal the ring was "Dusty Dan," Richards says he then discovered that he had been robbed of about $200 and declares that Scoffeld picked his pockets. He charged Scoffeld with the crime and when the latter denied it, struck him. An officer was called and separated the two men.

FELL INTO CELLAR.

Richards then walked to State street and south to Third South and thence to Main and Third South street. Here he was met by Scofield. Richards again accused the man of robbing him and the two immediately engaged in a fight. The men clawed, struck and kicked each other and fingly exampled kicked each other and finally grappled and fell into a cellar way in front of Van Dyke's drug store. Richards, who Van Dyke's drug store. Richards, who is a heavy man, fell under Scofield and his head struck with terrific force against an iron grating, almost scalping the man. The wound inflicted was of triangular shape about three inches long and laid his head open clear to the skull from the top of the head to a point near the right eye. It required about a dozen stitches to close it up.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

When the two men engaged in the fight some one telephoned to the police and a patrol wagonload of officers hurried to the scene. Richards was taken to the emergency hospital and Scofield was locked up in jail. The latter was not injured with the exception of a few bruises inflicted by the fists of the irate visitor.

As soon as Richards was taken to the emergency hospital. Dr. Stewart was summoned and worked over the man for nearly two hours before the wound was closed up. Friends then took Richards to the Cullen, where he will remain until the injury is healed.

RALEIGH ARRESTED.

While the physician was attending to the injured man, Sergt. Roberts ordered the arrest of Raleigh and the latter was brought to headquarters and will be held pending a rigid investigation into his movements this morning. He de-nies all knowledge of any robbery or attempt to steal Richards' diamond

Richards, however, is positive in his identification of the two men, "Dusty Dan" and Scoffeld. He declares the latter stole the money and the former was trying to take his diamond ring when he was awakened from the stuper caused by liquor. Scoffeld admits fol-lowing Richards to Main and Third South for the purpose of getting satis-faction for the accusation and blow faction for the accusation he received from Richards,

UNION FACIFIC INTO SALT LAKE

Surveys Now Being Run from Weber and Echo Canyons To Farmington.

TIME SAVING, EXPLANATION

Project Has Been Discussed for Years And Is Now a Certainty, Owing to Need of It.

(Special to the "News.") Ogden, Utah, Aug. 25 -- A large engineering force under the supervision of William Ashton, resident engineer of the Harriman system in Utah, is at work on the surveys for the Farmington-Weber canyon cut-off. This new line is to be built for the purpose of cutting off 24 miles of the route of the Los Angeles limited and saving of time between Chicago and Los Angeles Work started yesterday afternoon.

Reports received in the city yesterday at the superintendent's office of the Union Pacific are to the effect that the work of double tracking the line will be continued as long as the weather permits. The long looked for extension of the Union Pacific into Salt Lake is now about to be effected. The extension will be run, probably, from a point somewhere near Echo to Farmington, on the line of the Oregon Short Line. Other lines have been considered in the past and one of these may be accepted over the Weber canyon-Farmington survey. A line to Coalville on the survey. A line to Coalville on the U. P.'s Park City branch is being mentioned. This would bring the Union Pacific Into Salt Lake through Emigration cinc into Sait Lake through Emigration canyon, explaining to many wonderers the whys and wherefores of the Emigration canyon line being built by Judge Le Grand Young. The Coalville survey is rather roundabout and the line through Emigration Canyon, ene of many twists and turns, yet to a builder like Harriman these difficulbuilder like Harriman these arriculties are nothing when millions are spent to save time. And the saving ties are nothing when millions are spent to save time. And the saving of time is the reason for the Union Pacific's desire to enter this city. Ogden is at the far end of a triangle between Salt Lake and the main line of the Union Pacific through Weber and Echo canyons so a straight line from this city to Echo or to the main line in Echo canyon via Coalville would cut 24 hours from the present through schedule. This saving, to the limiteds, will be of incalculable value and would bring the coast closer by 24 hours to the east, or vice versu.

to the east, or vice versa.

Not only a roundabout route be eliminated but dangers of congrestion would go. The main line through Weber and go. The main line through Weber and Echo canyon is a single track and from a dozen to two dozen freight and pas-senger trains has over this single line senger trains pass over this single line daily. A wreck or a derailed car or a loose rail means a tie-up in a transcon-tinental system. Tie-ups are serious nuisances to transcontinental systems, millions of dollars being a small con-sideration when it is possible to eliminate tie-ups by money spending. The announcement made by the superintendent's office in Ogden would indicate that the Echo line is to be used with Ogden as a gate way. Officials here Ogden as a gate way. Officials here profess ignorance on this point, but it is intimated that freight trains will continue passing over the roundabout route to keep the cut-off between Salt Lake and Echo that much more open. It is believed the cut-off was gone over by Harriman officials and their chief when he passed through Utah on the way to the coast several weeks ago. Lake a direct connection to the coast with the Salt Lake Route in this city with the Sait Lake Route in this city will be established. The Union Pacific and Southern Pacific now connect at Ogden and this point is another of the several points which local officials in the Harriman family refuse to discuss

STRIKE SETTLING AGAIN. New Walk Out Unless Unionists of

Rio Grande Are Rehired.

"Again?" asked local officials of the

"Again?" asked local officials of the Rio Grande when asked this morning about the rumored settlement of the machinists' strike on Gould lines. "Has that strike been settled again? Odd, when everything is running smoothly; when the shops are running to capacity with men we hired when the union men went out last March. We do not know anything about the latest settlement story and have given up trying to keep track of these reports so frequently and mysteriously do they bob up."

Union men who walked out are reticent but confess they have heard that the olive branch has been extended to them by the company. Ever since the strike of the machinists threats have been made that all union men, not included among the March strikers, would be called from their work benches if the company did not concede the demands made by organized and dissatisfied machinists. The company has ignored these threats. The threat has been spoken again, this time with the additional stinger that every union man employed by Gould would walk out unless the strikers who went out a half-year ago are taken back. The local organizations with Rio Grande walk out unless the strikers who went out a half-year ago are taken back. The local organizations with Rio Grande strikers numbered among their membership rolls will send a delegate to Denver within a few days, it is rumored, to meet with William Hannon, sixth vice president of the International Machinists' union and other delegates from other strike centers.
